

Qey,

It is with honour and a sense of duty that I am stepping into the shoes of WWFN's director of culture and traditional activities. Aware of the tremendous value that our ancestral practices have, I undertake to oversee their preservation while striving to ensure that they are managed more equitably and rigorously.

Important changes will soon be introduced concerning the process by which hunting and fishing packages are awarded. From now on, access will be exclusively through a single point of service in order to make the process more straightforward and harmonized for all. Our traditions are sacred, and their long-term survival depends on compliance with established rules to safeguard our resources and ensure that activities run smoothly.

I am counting on your collaboration so that these adjustments can be made in a respectful manner and in a spirit of collective accountability.

I look forward to speaking with you and working together for the well-being of our community.

Woliwon!

Nelson Lepage

Director of Culture and Traditional Activities
WWFN

